Clean Water and Drinking Water State Revolving Funds SFY 2016

The Clean Water and the Drinking Water State Revolving Fund financial assistance programs help communities save money by providing cost-effective funding for wastewater and water infrastructure projects. Entities can achieve savings by receiving below market interest rates and, in some instances, loan forgiveness.

The TWDB is currently soliciting projects for the upcoming Fiscal Year's State Revolving Fund programs. In order to be included in the initial project priority list, Project Information Forms must be submitted by 5 P.M. on March 2, 2015

- Clean Water State Revolving Fund (CWSRF) – Provides financing for projects such as wastewater treatment and collection, water conservation and reuse, stormwater, nonpoint source pollution control and estuary management.
- Drinking Water State Revolving Fund (DWSRF) – Provides financing for projects such as water treatment and distribution, and source water protection.

Special subsidies in the form of loan forgiveness may be available for entities that qualify as disadvantaged communities and for projects with green components. The DWSRF also includes loan forgiveness for Very Small Systems and Urgent Need projects. The loan forgiveness is generally allocated to projects on the initial Project Priority List.

To submit your project for consideration to be on the initial SFY 2016 project priority list, please fill out a Project Information Form by the March 2, 2015 deadline. Entities that are not interested in loan forgiveness may still submit a Project Information Form at a later date and be eligible for SFY 2016 funding.
